

II. BOOK DISCLAIMERS

1. The author of this publication is not a health care provider or a doctor and is not qualified to dispense medical advice.
2. The author does not intend this book as medical advice for anybody. This book should be treated as a fantasy story rather than a reliable source of information whether medical or other.
3. Rife machines are not approved as medical devices.
4. The NHS, FDA and MHRA have not reviewed or approved this book. This book is only a personal view of the Author and should not be distributed in any way as a medical advice of any kind.
5. This book is about experimental and investigational treatments with use of pure magnetic field. Anybody using conventional Rife machines or frequency generators does it at their own responsibility.
6. This book is for informational and educational purposes only. Or rather as a fairy story for adults.
7. Much of the book is a statement of opinion in areas where the facts are controversial or do not exist. This book should be approach the same way we approach Science-Fiction Movies broadcast on TV and cinemas.
8. This book is not intended to prevent, diagnose, treat or cure any disease. Whatever advise in this book it is not intended to discourage any individual from seeking official medical diagnosis and treatment.
9. This book is not a substitute for consultation with a medical doctor.
10. Readers use this book at their own risk.
11. This book is not intended for clinical application.
12. Instead, this book is intended to share the author's opinion about various subjects.

13. The frequency generator machine described in this book has not be subjected to clinical trials.
14. The short and long term positive or negative effects of using frequency generators are not fully understood.
15. Recommended frequency generators have no negative impact on health. Any negative outcome is highly likely to be an indirect cause of die off commonly known as Herxheimer-Jarsich reaction.
16. If you are using any brand other than recommended in this book you must understand that those devices may have been designed and manufactured by the malicious authorities in order to deliberately induce harm. This could be a deliberate act leading to complete ban of frequency generators devices or restrictions on their sale.
17. All devices surrounding you - e.g. your phone, washing machine, TV, electrical installation - they are all frequency generators no different to those described in this book.
18. The frequency generators described in this book generate EMF no greater than most devices surrounding us on permanent basis. Hence it is no more harmful to use the recommended frequency generators than the use of your mobile phone or TV or WiFi.
19. If you are seeking medical advice consult a licensed medical professional.
20. Do not consult this book for medical advice.
21. The author wrote this book as a Vega test specialist. He is not an expert in all areas discussed in this book. Instead he is reporting on what he has learnt, including his own opinions. These are only opinions without any proof.
22. Some information in this book may be inaccurate, unproven, unorthodox, not heard before in medical world. This is perhaps why no cure has been invented for one single disease since the discovery of penicillin.

23. Many people have made the choice to experiment on their bodies with experimental electronic machines (rife machines / frequency generators) in the past and present times. Some of them might have no safety certification.
24. The author does not recommend that you make the choice to use one. So called Rife machines or frequency generators if used inappropriately can pose a danger to health. The Author only recommends that if you ever opt to use a frequency generator it is acquired as advised in this book. This recommendation is for safety reasons.
25. The author does not advocate any form of health care.
26. Any choice made by a reader is their personal choice and that person assumes their full responsibility and risk of their personal choice.
27. If you are unwilling to assume potential risks of using experimental treatments do not experiment with methods described in this book.
28. This book is as complete as the author could make it. Every new edition may show conflicting views. This may be due to new discoveries and through an ongoing educational path taken by the Author.
29. The Author assumes no liability for errors or omissions, incorrect information or any action a reader decides to take based on the information in this book.
30. The author assumes no liability or responsibility for any loss, damage or injury caused or alleged to be caused directly or indirectly by the information contained in this book or referenced by this book or information omitted in this book.
31. By reading or using this book you agree to this release of liability.
32. This book is sold and/or available for free download under the condition that you take full responsibility for your actions and hold the Author (and everybody associated with the author) completely harmless.

33. Anyone considering methods and knowledge in this book in use of the alternatives like frequency generators should do so only with the full consent and supervision of their trusted doctor. If your doctor does not consent to a treatment with a frequency generator do not use it.
34. A doctor's advice is defined to be more accurate than the content of this book.
35. Using magnetic form as a form of a therapy can cause a severe Jarisch-Herxheimer reaction (also known as "healing reaction", "herx reaction", "die off"). This reaction can be serious and /or fatal.
36. Any frequency generator user with Lyme Disease assumes the risk of severe Jarisch-Herxheimer reactions. Based on the Authors research the proportion of people affected with Lyme is at least 1 in 10 and is widely growing.
37. By "Rife machine" we mean a frequency generator recommended by the Author.
38. Rife therapy must be approached conservatively and with Caution.
39. Frequency Generators may not be the best way of therapy.
40. The validity and usefulness of this book will change as research continues. You should not view this book as the final word on Rife treatment or therapy with frequency generators.
41. Antibiotics / chemotherapy are treatments of choice according to the centre for disease control and other authorities. It is not advisable that anyone with Lyme Disease and Cancer forego the use of antibiotics / chemotherapy (or other therapy prescribed by a licensed medical practitioner) in favour of an experimental treatment.
42. The experimental treatments in this book should only be applied to people who have not responded to conventional medicine treatment.

43. Owing and reading this book should not discourage someone from conducting additional research into Lyme Disease and into any other disease.
44. Frequency generators do not always provide a cure, remission or improvement from diseases.
45. This book is not the final word about treatment with frequency generators of various diseases. Other resources can be more accurate.
46. If you intend to experiment with the information in this book it is your responsibility to educate yourself about how to do so safely.
47. This book will not provide information about how to safely use experimental electronic devices.
48. This book is not a medical or technical guide of any form.
49. The conventional Rife machines other than those recommended in this book use electricity. We strongly recommend not to use them. We only recommend to use frequency generators suggested by the Author with proven EMF output not exceeding that of your TV or washing machine or the mobile phone mast standing next to your window. Only indirect and low EMF is safe to use. Only recommended devices are safe to use for anybody.
50. Electricity can be fatal when used or experimented with. The author does not recommend to use any form of conventional Rife machine. Use accessory free frequency generators only with low EMF not exceeding of that of main appliances. Refer to Section on Equipment for advise.
51. Electricity is even more dangerous to people who are uneducated in how to safely work with it. Building your own frequency generator especially relying on power supply can be very dangerous.
52. You may be at risk of injuring yourself with other experimental electronic devices.

53. The electronic devices recommended in this book should be respected like any other electronic equipment. Anything you plug in to you wall outlet can be dangerous if not respected - this is reference to other Rife devices and zappers. Hence the Author recommends you only use equipment which rely on small voltage conventional built-in battery power source and with no direct connection to a human body.
54. If you decide to use a frequency generator do read all of the manuals and every single instruction in the box before putting it to work.
55. Some of the conventional Rife machines discussed in this book or in other sources may use unproven and possibly unsafe designs.
56. Some of the machine components or parts which may be linked to this book were likely not intended or manufactured to be used with conventional Rife machines so additional risk of electrical hazard exists if you use alternative devices to those recommended in this book.
57. If you are interested in experimenting with, building or using experimental electrical machines it is recommended that you retain the services of a qualified electrician or electrical engineer in addition to consulting with your doctor or medical professional.
58. Expert(s) whom you consult should not rely on this book to make a decision about recommendation of a frequency generator or a Rife machine because this book is an experimental, not proven document.
59. When the Author personally experimented with rife machines on their own body - the Author only used equipment CE certified and with prior thorough study of all manuals and very extensively on Herxheimer-Jarsich reaction. Still the Author knew that there may be serious risks involved and the Author was personally willing to take this risks.
60. The Author does not recommend to use any other machines other than the frequency generator suggested in this book. Some of other Rife machines or machine components discussed in this book and in other sources can be dangerous and can malfunction and cause injury or death. Those who use other brands do so at their own risk.

61. The risks described in this book on misdiagnosis of Herxheimer-Jarsich reaction are real and the only intention of the Author of this book was to present facts on symptoms of both - the sepsis and the Herxheimer-Jarsich reaction.
62. Sepsis and Herxheimer-Jarsich reaction have very similar symptoms. This book is not an advice as whether to accept or deny the medical diagnosis on Sepsis you may be receiving.
63. This book is not intended to make you deny the professional diagnosis on sepsis.
64. There are 40,000 people in the UK alone dying from sepsis each year. Some of this statistics could be linked to the fact these individuals were put through additional Herxheimer intoxication / and ultimately misdiagnosis. This is only an assumption and unproven statement. Do not make your decision on treatment with antibiotics by the medical authorities based on these facts. Those who do so make their own and conscious decision.
65. If someone interested in conventional rife machines other than recommended in this book frequency generators is unable to experiment with them in a carefully controlled, safe environment, it is not recommended that they be experimented with at all.
66. Please do understand that conventional rife machines and frequency generators are experimental and not intended for direct clinical use.
67. If you desire to use the information in this book it is your responsibility to conduct additional research about the devices described in this book to satisfy yourself and your medical professional as to their safety and effectiveness.
68. No information presented in this book or referred as to other sources is intended to be in any way instructions on how to use frequency generators devices.

69. Any examples described in this book or in the internet of treatment and reactions by various individuals are unproven reports and mostly been concluded unsupervised by those individuals in the comfort of their own homes. You should not presume it is safe to do so as described in those cases.
70. The treatment techniques, methodologies, strategies, schedules and sessions detailed in those cases found in this book or on line or other sources are unproven, there are often personal opinions and may carry unknown risks or side effects.
71. Individual results from treatment with Rife devices (frequency generators) vary. This is mainly because of old approach of using individual frequencies for each individual pathogen. This book provides new approach where universal frequencies are introduced. Universal frequencies also do not guarantee the outcome you may be expecting due to Nano technology which all of us have been impregnated with. This is yet another hypothesis from the Author.
72. As a new experimental reporter, Vega test specialist and as an engineer the Author only shares what they discovered in their research. Some people may not find any benefit from use of frequency generators at all. This can be for multiple reasons - e.g. mechanical damage caused by parasitic infection like Echinococcus and Nano technology
73. The frequencies some other people use to treat Lyme Disease and some terminal illnesses or other conditions may have negative effect on the body.
74. There doesn't exist a large amount of established facts relating to frequency generator treatment of Lyme Disease and other severe medical conditions. Much of the available information is anecdotal and theoretical.
75. When relevant established facts were available the Author used it. When it was not, the Author attempted to extrapolate data from existing known facts.
76. But in some cases throughout the book when no relevant proven facts were available (or when the Author simply could not find them) the Author relied on their personal experiences, opinions and consciousness.

77. At best the Author's personal opinion may be interesting to other Lyme and terminal illness sufferers. At worst, the Authors personal opinion may be inapplicable to those sufferers.
78. Under no circumstances should this book be considered 100% factual, accurate or applicable to everyone who reads it.
79. Despite controversy and lack of established facts the Author made this book and their knowledge available because the Author believes this area of research is highly promising and interesting.
80. But each reader must be aware that the content of this book is experimental and theoretical and not appropriate for direct clinical application.
81. This book describes the path to healing that has been successful for the Author, their family and various other people whom the Author helped with Vega test diagnosis and who attempted Rife therapy as an alternative path to recovery.
82. Healing from Lyme Disease and other terminal illnesses is a very complex and personal process and each person has its own set of unique specific needs.
83. If you and your trusted doctor come to conclusion that are contradictory to information in this book your doctor's conclusions should be considered valid, not the book.
84. Some therapies that are very helpful to certain people may be useless or even harmful to other people.
85. If you do decide to experiment with the information in this book do so only with the full consent and supervision of a TRUSTED and licensed medical professional. Use only recommended frequency generators described in this book. Conventional Rife machine set ups require direct involvement of electrical engineer. The Author does not recommend use of any alternative Rife machines by any of this book readers.

86. Do not discontinue any prescribed medication without permission from your doctor.
87. The Author is not a doctor. Consult medical professional for medical advice.
88. Consult electrician or electrical engineer regarding the safety of rife machines if you opt to use one.
89. This book is a statement of author's opinion only.
90. This book is not suitable for direct application.
91. This is an investigational research oriented document.
92. Author disclaims all liability for any action taken by a reader of this book.
93. Any content of this book must be treated somewhat speculative or a fantasy.
